DOLLARS UP TO STANDARD, RESULTS OF TESTS SHOW

Nanking Mint Coins Declared To Be All Right

CRITICS SCORED

Prof. Mabce To Make New Analysis Of Samples

The Nanking Mint silver dollar was declared to be in absolute conformity with the prescribed requirements following an all-day analysis held at the General Chamber of Commerce of Shanghai yesterday and witnessed by government agents, representatives of public organizations and newspapermen.

After the announcement of the results, which were secured from portions of the four dollars, which Prof. F. C. Mabce had found to be below the standard percentage of 85, Mr. T. Y. Chow, a professor of Fuh Tan University, took occasion to score the college assayer.

The speaker invited the delegates to look at yesterday's results and compare the great difference between them and those obtained by Prof. Mabce. The difference was about one percent in each case.

The question of the composition of the silver dollar had financial, political as well as international significance and he was glad that it had been publicly settled. Mr. Chow then concluded with an emotional appeal for justice and fair play and assured the assembly that not all things in China were bad.

MAYBE REPLIED

Dr. Mabce issued the following statement last night to THE CHINA PRESS with reference to the analysis:

"March 3, 1924

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

"Dear Sir:

"The Shanghai Industrial Research Laboratory has again secured samples of the four coins, which were analysed some weeks ago and I am personally making an analysis, the results of which will be recorded when complete. In both the original and the present instances the samples were submitted under specified conditions and the laboratory has not been free to make other uses of such samples.

"Whether or not the original analysis was in error, it is not correct to charge there has been unwillingness to participate with representatives of the Nanking Mint in a joint analysis.

"Thanking you for giving publicity to the above, I am, Sincerely Yours,

"Fred G. Mabce (sgd)."

It is understood that Prof. Mabce has been engaged in the analysis both Sunday and yesterday, and will make public the results obtained.

OFFICIAL REPORT

The official report of the public analysis follows:

"Report on the results of the analysis of portions of four dollars certified by the Nanking Mint to have been previously analysed by Professor Mabce and also of a representative sample taken from twenty dollars which were drawn by Mr. W. G. Hollyer and Mr. Tchang Zing-ching representing the Foreign Exchange Banks and the Native Bankers' Guild respectively.

Chang Tso-lin To Start No New War This Spring, He Tells Junius Wood

Fengtien Leader Avows Peaceful Intentions, But Is Both Willing And Ready For War If The Struggle Is Carried To Him

BY JUNIUS B. WOOD

(Special Far Eastern Correspondent for the Chicago Daily News)

Mukden, Manchuria, Feb. 24.

Chang Tso-lin will not start another war in China this spring. Though intentions may change with the usual uncertainty of China, such was the assertion of the warlord of Manchuria, practically an uncrowned emperor of the cities and plains north of the great wall, as we sat in the famous tiger room—two stiffly stuffed tigers with big glassy eyes on host and visitor, tiger skins on every chair and sofa, and rare Imperial jade, cloisonne and scrolls on mantle and walls—of his yamen this afternoon. However, he left no doubt that his peaceful assurance is not to be interpreted that he is not willing and ready if the fighting comes to him.

The capital of the three provinces hums with military activity. The marshal's supporters assert that he has 300,000 men under arms. Others estimate 200,000. The pick of them are in Mukden. Seasoned fighters of nearly every nationality—French mortar makers, ammunition experts, gas chemists, aviators and drillmasters—are either training the troops or advising in the manufacture of munitions of war. The younger element, led by the 23-year-old Brigadier General Chang Hsueh-liang, who is simultaneously aide to his father, commander of a brigade, director of radio and director of aviation, are ready to start marching on Peking immediately, now that the Chinese spring has come.

The counsels of more mature campaigners prevail. Just now the much heralded annual spring war seems to be postponed as premature, just as were the scheme for an Empire of Middle Asia with its capital at Mukden, the restoration of the 19-year-old Boy Emperor, and other broad sweeping plans which have been credited to the craftiness of the little man, who rises from old Fengtien. Marshal Chang has practical reasons for believing that events will make his way without the necessity of fighting.

SCOFFS AT PERKING

As a rule the marshal does not receive visitors on Sundays and I was assured that his aide de camp was annoyed at this visit, still having the holiday habit from the recent New Year. However the aide was at the gate. When Marshal Chang says it is not a holiday, it is not in Manchuria. The marshal filed his waterpipe, smoked it out in two puffs, asked a string of questions and leaning back in a tiger covered chair, eyes half closed, answered others. "Foreigners should observe the politics of Peking which indicate that no fighting will be necessary to overthrow the Chihli party now in control in that part of China," he said. "The leaders of the party are quarrelling among themselves and it can neither give a good government, keep its organization together or control its insubordinate underlings and keep order in the country. If

FOREIGN POLICE OFFICER HURT BY BURGLAR GANG

Two Are Charged in Mixed Court; Victim In Hospital

A foreign Police Constable, Mr. Willkoss, was beaten over the head and badly injured by a gang of burglars whom he ran across in the compound at 17 Ford Lane early Monday morning. Two suspects are now in custody.

Constable Willkoss was passing the address mentioned when he heard a breaking of glass. He went into the compound and found several men. Grappling with one of them he threw him to the ground; whereupon he was assaulted by others and struck over the head with some heavy weapon.

The man he grappled with escaped, but was captured. It is alleged by a Chinese constable. Taken to the station and questioned, he gave the name of a second man, who was found and arrested in a house on East Hanbury Road.

Detective Sub-Inspector Quayle testified that the first accused had admitted the offense and that he had given the name and the address of the second accused. The police asked for a remand and the case was accordingly held over by Assessor Allman and Magistrate Li until next Friday.

Constable Willkoss is still in hospital as a result of the assault made upon him.

S. S. LACONIA SAILS AFTER TWO HECTIC DAYS HERE

Globe Trotters Almost "Buy Out" City

HONGKONG NEXT TO BE DEPORTED

Rickshas And Motor Cars Reap Harvest

After turning the Astor House into a beehive for two days, giving employment to several hundred extra ricksha coolies, buying out most of the postal card, curio, silk and mah jongg shops in the city and seeing Shanghai's sights in between times the more than 700 globe-trotters on board the big Laconia boarded tenders for Wosung yesterday afternoon and sailed on board the liner for Hongkong and Manila.

The Laconians will spend five days sightseeing about Hongkong and Canton before going onto the Philippines, and will then continue their hasty journey around the world in time to get back to New York by the middle of May.

A majority of the tourists arrived via tender from Wosung early Sunday morning although two large parties came overland from Peking. Sunday morning they were scattered all over the Settlement and French Concession. In dozens of forty in rickshas, the modern city that they found instead of the "Chinese" collection of hovels and temples some of them expected, and Sunday they found the Astor House so crowded that those so inclined had to sail out into Whangsoo Road to change their mind.

Dr. Peter Loses Manuscript On Medical Work

Dr. W. W. Peter of the Council on Health Education lost an extremely valuable manuscript last night somewhere between Hankow Road and his home on Route de Zay Zongg. The loss was immediately reported to the police and Dr. Peter's home thoroughly searched without success.

The manuscript was marked "Medicine As a Life Work," and was contained in a black leather carrying case. Leaving a meeting at 3 Hankow Road late in the evening on his motorcycle Dr. Peter drove to the Bund, to the French Bund, out Rue du Consulat, and then out Avenue Joffre, turning into Route de Zay Zongg. When he arrived home the case, which had been on the motorcycle, was missing.

The manuscript was the result of two years' work on the subject and included notes taken in various parts of China. It is extremely valuable to Dr. Peter and the Council on Health Education, but valueless to anyone else. A reward for its return to Dr. Peter at 4 Quinsan Garden, was offered last night.

ABOLITION OF CALIPHATE IS ENDORSED BY TURK PARTY

HONGKONG NEXT TO BE DEPORTED

Expulsion Of Members Of Caliph Family Is Planned

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, March 2.—The People's Party, by an overwhelming majority, accepted the Bill deposing the Caliph and abolishing the Caliphate.

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, March 2.—An important session of the People's Party is being held today to discuss three Bills for firstly, the suppression of the Caliphate; secondly, the suppression of the Ministry of Pious Foundations; and thirdly, the abolition of theological schools.

The Bill concerning the Caliphate provides for the deposition of the Caliph, the abolition of the Caliphate, the perpetual expulsion of all members of the Caliph family from Turkey within ten days, the forfeiture of their Turkish citizenship, the payment of a lump sum which is said not to exceed Liras 500,000 and the confiscation of all palaces. The deportees would be allowed one year in which to liquidate their private property through their representatives. It is expected that the Bill will be accepted by the Assembly this afternoon.

FEAR EXPOSE OF FILIPINO FREEDOM FUND

Independence Leaders Fail To Take Court Action To Halt Auditor

(Exclusive China Press)

Manila, March 2.—The committee which has set out to raise funds for the Philippine Independence Mission now in Washington is making strenuous efforts to arouse popular enthusiasm for the fund.

A mass meeting has been called for Monday evening to further the campaign.

Although Filipino legal experts declare that a mandamus action would lie against Ben F. Wright, Insular auditor, because of his refusal to approve the vouchers for the funds voted the mission by the legislature, Manuel Quezon, head of the Philippine Independence movement, has so far made no move to take such action. Quezon's inaction is probably due to the fact that should he bring mandamus proceedings, Mr. Wright would be in a position publicly to produce certain vouchers which might compromise prominent people in the United States and the Philippines and which might give rise to a scandal similar to the Teapot Dome naval oil lease revelations.

New Plea For Entente Is Voiced By Macdonald

Rogers Heiress Secretly Weds Count

Countess Salm von Hoogsstraten

Miss Mary Lillicent Rogers, beautiful twenty-year-old daughter of Colonel and Mrs. H. H. Rogers, of New York, and heiress to the $40,000,000 estate of her late grandfather, H. H. Rogers, Standard Oil magnate, has been secretly married in the Municipal Building, New York, to Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogsstraten, Austrian nobleman, who fought in one of the crack Austrian cavalry regiments in the World War. The marriage was a complete surprise to her parents. The Count, who is 24, was divorced in 1912 from Baroness Frankenthal.

Revenge Seen As Motive In Tsinan Bandit Murder

(Reuter's Pacific Service) Tientsin, Feb. 29.—Three bandits and the wife of the leader of the gang which kidnapped Mr. E. S. Keh, district mechanical engineer of the Kiao-chow-Tsinaifu Railway, who was taken from his home at Changtien on December 2, and subsequently murdered, have been apprehended by the police at Tsinan. One of the trio is Kiao Liang-chien, former engineer of the railway, who played a prominent part in the affair, which came to a tragic ending when the railroad official's body was found within a stone's throw of the railroad station in Tsinan on January 29.

Through the efforts of the police, whose movements were directed by Captain Lee Da-shen, it has been discovered that Mr. Keh, whose whereabouts had been a mystery from the time of his capture until the finding of his body with a bullet through the heart, was kept imprisoned and under armed guard in a little room in the rear of a Japanese shop in Tsinan. This merchant was to receive one-tenth of the ransom as his share. As the ransom was paid the latter profited to the extent of $1,500.

The leader of the bandit gang, the police have learned, was Li Kwei-woo, a resident of Tsinan who had not been suspected previously of playing the part of brigand chief, but passed for a business man.

The police learned of the bandit rendezvous at Li's residence and suddenly broke into the place, capturing the trio and their chief's wife although the head of the gang managed to escape by a back exit. Four revolvers and ammunition were found in their possession.

The Keh case probably attracted more attention than the kidnapping of any other Chinese in years. Revenge was one of the motives, as the former locomotive engineer, who allied himself with the bandits, had been discharged by the murdered official because of careless performance of his duties.

The family of the slain engineer have just been voted compensation by the railroad, arrangements having been made to pay to Mrs. Keh and the five children the sum of $305 monthly for the next fifteen years, at the termination of which time the eldest son will have attained his majority.

The second seizure of contraband landed from a Japanese vessel, within the past ten days, occurred on Wednesday when the police arrested a Japanese merchant leaving the steamship Yuan Tien with 1,000 ounces of opium in his possession. This merchant, who had his place of business here, had been making frequent trips between here and Japan and the police believe him to have smuggled in large quantities of the forbidden narcotic.

The opium was confiscated by the police and the Japanese was turned over to the Japanese consular authorities and has been lodged in the latter's jail.

A week ago five Japanese women from Tsingtao's underworld were caught red-handed while trying to land twenty-five revolvers and 20,000 rounds of ammunition from the Kasuga Maru. They are in jail awaiting deportation to Japan.

FRANK NOTES EXCHANGED WITH FRANCE BY PREMIER

Uiges Unanimity On Essential Purpose

SECURITY IS AIM

Great Task Now Is To Establish Confidence

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 2.—Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in his letter to M. Poincare of February 21 says that he sees little prospect of their being able to attain agreement with regard to the Ruhr, the Rhineland and the Palatinate, unless they are first able to frank and courageous discussion to achieve some unanimity of purpose to the essential purposes to which these problems are merely subsidiary, for when he considers their relations in their wider aspect, he does not feel that their essential objects are so divergent. The British and French both desire security, the French security against war, the problem of security is not merely a French a European problem.

Their task must be to establish confidence, which can only be achieved by allaying international suspicion and anxiety. Whether this can be partially achieved by local de-militarisation and neutralisation, or by the creation between certain States of bands of neutralized territory under mutual or even collective guarantee and supervision or by some other means is a matter for careful consideration in detail.

The British Prime Minister believes that the League of Nations by discussion and eventual action might play an important part in this. The assent and goodwill of every European country must be enlisted in support of this policy, which can only be initiated if France and England are agreed.

AWAIT REPORTS

Similarly the French desire to repair the devastation of the war by restoring ruined markets and remedying unemployment. Before this problem can be discussed, however, the reports of the Expert Committee must be awaited. Mr. MacDonald hopes that they will draw Britain and France together.

He does not see any reason why this problem, if approached from its widest aspect and considered in conjunction with the cognate problem of international debts, should not soon be solved so as to give England hope of economic stability in Europe and France assurance that her just requirements will be met.

Here again, if France and England can but agree, the co-operation of the other European states will be possible for them to approach the United States as united Europe, anxious by mutual advice and arrangement to cure the ills of the people.

ANXIETY FELT

Mr. MacDonald says that the people of Britain regard with anxiety what appears to them to be the determination of France to ruin Germany and dominate the continent without consideration for Britain's reasonable interests and for the future consequences to a European settlement. They are apprehensive of the large military and aerial establishments, maintained not only in Eastern but also in Western France. They are disturbed by the interest shown by the French Government in the military organization of the new States of Central Europe. Finally, they question why all these activities should be financed by the French Government, disregarding the fact that the British taxpayer has to find over $50,000,000 a year for the interest on the loans raised in America and also to find large sums to pay the interest on the debt of France to Britain, to meet which France has not yet made nor proposed, as far as they can see.

Such popular sentiments are, however, though they may be and are factors which both you and I are bound to take into consideration.

The British Prime Minister, Mr. MacDonald, in his reply to Mr. Poincaré's letter of February 26, says that he is at present to prepare the way for a complete, mutual understanding by rectifying unreasonably difficulties and the manner in which he envisages the situation. He emphasises his opinion that the differences in past cases have been wholly unavoidable. He is ready in the future to rectify the whole problem in its larger outlines and more essential elements.

PUBLIC OPINION

Mr. MacDonald dwells on the importance of public opinion in France and England. He has, however, not merely to interpret the views and desires of his own countrymen, but sympathetically to realise the opinion and needs of France. It is widely felt in England that, contrary to the Treaty of Versailles, France is endeavouring to create a situation which will allow her to fall back on the Allied peace negotiations. The view of this section of the countrymen is that that policy can only perpetuate the uncertainty and dangers of a continuing state of peace but of war in the end will destroy what temporary security France may gain.

The British Prime Minister adds that the German menace to France is real and the French have some justification for seeking more tangible safeguards instead of the lapsed Anglo-American guarantee. The French are disappointed with regard to the situation.

Neither the virtually unlimited expectations, aroused at the moment of victory, nor the most specific assessment of 1921 bear any real relation to the economic situation today. British security is not menaced, but her economic existence is gravely endangered owing to the acute and persistent instability of the markets of Europe, which is mainly due to the uncertainty of Franco-German relations, the economic chaos in Germany and the ultimate uncertainty of Anglo-French relations.

AN UNHEALTHY CONDITION

After alluding to British apprehensions with regard to French activities, mentioned above, Mr. MacDonald expresses the opinion that these states of opinion have created Anglo-French relations in the past and have often induced the two Governments to indulge in speculations with regard to the symptoms of the malady without endeavoring with clarity and good sense to investigate the cause. It is a thoroughly unhealthy condition, which gives the much concerned and he believes disturbs Mr. Poincaré too, is a healthy reaction that they, together, shall try to give both sides sections of French and British opinion some sense of confidence that the basis of their fears and resentments are being removed.

Nobody who has to observe British opinion today can afford to overlook the urgent necessity of reaching arrangements with regard to the Ruhr, the Rhineland and the Palatinate without delay. After dealing with security and reparations, as mentioned above, Mr. MacDonald concludes that, if he and Mr. Poincaré can achieve agreement on the main principles which inspire them and those principles can be explained to their respective peoples and public opinion, there would then be little doubt that many subsidiary problems, intricate and many though they have become, will not prove impossible of solution, but, if they allow themselves to be entangled in a mass of detail, they will relapse into the old wearisome round of controversy on points not fundamental. He again emphasises that the condition of Europe can only be remedied by joint Anglo-French action, undertaken with full sympathy for their respective requirements and with regard to the interests of the world at large. He is fully prepared for such cooperation.

POINCARÉ'S REPLY

Mr. Poincaré, replying on February 26, expresses full agreement with Mr. MacDonald's review of questions and methods of solution. He declares his intention on the part of France politically or economically to annihilate Germany or to annex a part of German territory, though he suggests that the latter should be made a barrier against aggression.

The French Premier declares that France's military and aerial establishments are exclusively designed to defend her against German revenge.

Mr. Poincaré emphasises that France has only lent money to Germany.

the Little Entente States for purposes of defence in exchange for positive pledges and so has done nothing to prevent the payment of her own debts.

The occupation of the Ruhr will cease on the day that Germany pays her debts. The occupation of the Rhineland will end when the conditions of the Treaty are fulfilled and France's security is guaranteed.

HOPES FOR SETTLEMENTS

The French Premier hopes that, after the Allied Governments have examined the report of the Committee of Experts, they will arrive rapidly at a comprehensive settlement and will ensure that Germany carries it out. He says that it is infinitely desirable that the question of inter-Allied debts shall be settled simultaneously.

France like the British Cabinet, firmly intends to strengthen and magnify the role of the League of Nations.

In conclusion, Mr. Poincaré dwells on the necessity of a Franco-British entente, saying that the whole of Europe and humanity would have to pay the price for dissensions between France and Britain.

Mr. Poincaré expresses keen pleasure at Mr. MacDonald's frank and friendly letter. He says that he is ready to begin with him examination of the great outstanding problems, the interests and desires of the two countries are altogether in harmony and both can only be satisfied by the same means. He declares that, if France does not mean that the recovery of Germany shall develop into a hegemony, she herself has no ulterior motive of continental supremacy. No reasonable Frenchman has ever dreamt of annexing a part of German territory, nor of turning a single German into a French citizen.

NO SIGN OF DEFIANCE

Apart from Alsace, France has never claimed the Rhine as a frontier. She has only asked that Germany should no longer be in a position to use the Rhine as a military base for fresh attacks on France. Whatever disappointments she has experienced, she has never sought anything not recognised as hers by the Treaty.

If France's military and aerial establishments are scattered throughout the country, it is because administrative organisation and mobilisation requirements do not allow of their concentration in the East. "But our Army and Air Force are no more a sign of defiance to England than the aerial and maritime fleets of Britain are, in your view, a threat to France."

Referring to French relations with the Little Entente, Mr. Poincaré intimates that France would welcome England's adherence to this group of friendships as the best guarantee of peace.

He hopes that the progress of the League of Nations and the development of international arbitration will soon justify the associated nations in proceeding to co-ordinated limitation of armaments, which will not expose the most peace-loving to the uncertainties of the most warlike.

In conclusion the French Premier says: "No more than you in France to imagine England and France separated from each other, we are indifferent to each other. We owe it to civilisation to remain united. Since our two governments are conscious of this duty, it is impossible that we should not act together to carry it out."

London, March 3.—That professions of good intentions alone will not succeed in bridging the gulf between Britain and France is a fact which nobody endeavours to conceal in commenting on the evolution of the "new diplomacy." Several London newspapers mourn the absence of any essential change in Mr. Poincaré's oft-repeated motto and the stress of the continued fundamental divergence of the peace policies of the two Premiers, namely, sectional alliances versus universal agreement.

The liberal papers welcome Mr. Poincaré's reference to the League of Nations as suggesting a new angle of vision. General satisfaction prevails that the correspondence is usefully proceeding from generalities to concrete issues, while unanimous praise is accorded to Mr. MacDonald's efforts to create an improved atmosphere as the most weighty factor in the ultimate settlement.

THIRTY THOUGHT DEAD IN BLAST IN NEW JERSEY

Vast Area Is Shaken By Great Explosion In Nitrate Factory

(Reuter's American Service)
New York, March 1.—Eight persons were killed, 12 are missing and 100 injured as a result of an explosion at the Nixon Nitrate Works on the Baritan River, which shook Northern Jersey and was felt in New York City. Windows within a mile radius of the explosion were shattered and doors unhinged.

(Reuter's Service)
New York, March 1.—It is now believed that 30 persons perished as a result of the explosion at the Nixon Nitrate Works on the Baritan River. All neighboring buildings, including 100 workmen's quarters, were wrecked and are now on fire.

The Ammonite Company, which was using the building for storage, is engaged in the manufacture of fertilisers from wartime high explosives and unused shells. The buildings which were blown up contained 1,000,000 gallons of ammonia nitrate and 15 tank cars each containing 90,000 gallons of ammonia nitrate in process of crystallisation.

buying right and left and practically cleaning out the streets they passed through, while other groups made an extended automobile tour of the city and environs, visiting several points of special interest to the uninitiated including the Loongwa pagoda, Shanghai's lone example of pagoda architecture was of particular interest to most on board the Laconia because as this is the first port of call in China they have never had an opportunity to gaze upon such a monument to the China of yesterday.

With the exception of the small parties that made the trip overland from Peking the Chinese life of Shanghai was also an interesting object to the tourists. Such of China as they saw in and about Shanghai will remain as a part of their idea of the country until they get to Canton and its crowded and crooked little alleyways—unless, of course, one of the perpetual "battles" takes place in Canton and makes an expedition there from Hongkong impossible. Late reports from Canton, however, indicated that Canton's factional forces were aware of the coming of the Laconia and no civil war would be staged until they had come and gone. Canton curio dealers had large amounts because of the trouble that broke out there last year coincident with the arrival of two or three large tourist parties.

MANY GO SHOPPING

Yesterday the Laconia globe-trotters repeated their Sunday program, visiting a few places they had not seen before but devoting a large part of the day to shopping. "Riches are now ready for Z group, section 2, preferred contingent of S. S. Laconia, for shopping. Guides in attendance," was a sentence called out over and over in the Astor House lobby. Several Shanghaianders, merely present in the Astor to see a friend passing through, or out of sheer, idle curiosity were nearly kidnapped by some of the section leaders in their frenzied efforts to get 'em all in riches and on their way on schedule time during the last day.

Nanking Road's many shops were crowded with Laconia shoppers that eventually spread out into the adjoining streets. Jack Mason and a rushing business in the Astor lobby. Many got as far out as the Hwai convent and the

After their departure it was figured that not a single passenger but what departed carrying with him or her at least one mah jongg set, and many had a few extra ones for members of the family or friends back in Oskosh, Wisconsin, Nampa, Idaho, and Clifton, N. J. The postal card market is denuded, and lace, shawls and jade is at a premium.

The usual humorous happenings were recorded with persistent persistency. Many paid in gold unknowing that the glad-eyed Chinese shopkeepers were doubling their profit—and 50 percent of them failed utterly in comprehending the mystery of how they could get five twenty-cent pieces, one ten-cent piece and seven coppers for a dollar. And so on, ad finem.

Mr. Roger L. ("Diaty") Moore, formerly manager of the Astor House, who conducted one party of the tourists to Shanghai via Peking, and Mr. J. P. JAPAN'S LEADING WRESTLERS HERE FOR EXHIBITIONS

Champions of Empire To Show in Pavilion on Sany Road

A rare opportunity is to be offered to Shanghai residents to see Japanese champion wrestlers for a troupe of one hundred and fifty professionals, including such first-class grapplers as Tochigiyama, Tsunehisaka, Ohnosato, Fukuyangai and Kashiwayama arrived yesterday by the N.Y.K. steamer, Shanghai Maru.

Hitherto we have had chances to see Japanese wrestlers but they were not champions. Had it not been for the fact that the Tokyo Wrestling Hall, "Kokugikan," was seriously damaged by the earthquake, these Japanese wrestlers would not have had an opportunity to pay a visit to Shanghai as they are sure always to draw big crowds at the Kokugikan, Tokyo. In the above circumstances, however, they are compelled to exhibit in provincial cities and towns in Japan for the present, pending the reconstruction of the Wrestling Hall in the capital, which is, it is reported, to be completed by the fall. They, therefore decided to extend their tour as far as Shanghai.

Necessary arrangements have been made for their performances which are to take place for five days beginning on March 6 in a pavilion on Sany Road, where an extensive building is now under construction. Over one thousand spectators will be easily accommodated.

According to the manager of the wrestlers, foreigners of any nationality who wish to tackle these wrestlers are cordially welcomed provided they observe the Japanese wrestling rule, which, upon application, will be explained in detail. Among the visiting wrestlers, it is understood, there are some who have had the honor of appearing in the presence of the Emperor and Empress.

The Dog Watch

By Westa

It has become pretty well established around the hot stove circuit in America that the baseball public is fed up on home runs, and that unless the rule makers devise some means to deflate the four-ply clout, so to speak, the popularity of the game will decline. The hot stove league cannot forget the fact that there were 26,000 vacant seats at the last world's series—an unprecedented thing.

The baseball writers at home have been warning the club owners for a long time that the paying public would not long tolerate the cheap home run. The club owners, made greedy by the clink of coin at the turn-stiles as the eager thousands flocked in to watch Babe Ruth knock the horsehide out of the lot, shortened their fences and removed the bleacher screens in the hope that other Babe Ruths might appear on the scene.

"The public wants homers, so we will give them all the homers they want," the magnates said.

THEREIN they appear to have made a very serious mistake. For from all corners of the land there comes a loud and insistent appeal for relief. The fans are clamoring for a return to the old days, when a home run was something to enthuse about. The boys who play the freight, apparently, are getting exceedingly weary of the healthy single which for the past two or three seasons has been masquerading (with the help of the club owners) as a homer, and are not showing the slightest hesitancy in saying so.

This is easy to understand. As a matter of fact it is difficult to understand why the customers didn't rebel long ago against the cheap and spurious home runs which for the past two seasons have been rattling off the bats of mediocre hitters in all the leagues at home. The average baseball fan would be up in arms instantly if a ticket seller at the gate tried to short change him out of so much as a nickel, not that he would care a whoop for the nickel, but on the ground that it is against his principles to let anybody put anything over on him. And yet the club owners for the past two or three years have been smearing him good and plenty with fake home runs and it is only lately that he has begun to howl about it.

IN every league fences have been shortened since Babe Ruth started out to popularize the home run. Screens and wire netting have been removed in right and left fields. In some instances the field bleachers have been moved in. In a brazen effort to stimulate home run hitting, over and above these aids the ball was made livelier; due to it has been charged, to the insistence of the club owners. And naturally the home run totals have soared until, in one afternoon last summer there were eighteen of them in a single park.

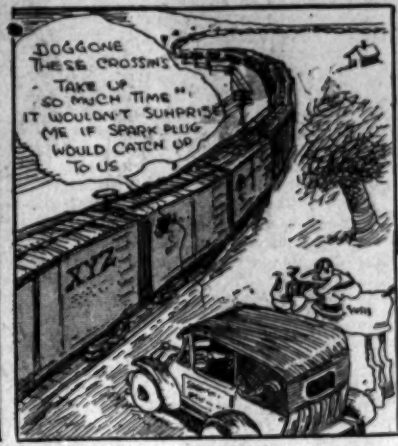

CLARK Griffith, owner of the Washington club, favors a change in the rules that would make any fair hit that goes over a fence or into a stand "less than 315 feet from the home plate" an out-of-bounds ball that would entitle the batsman to two bases only. Under the rules at present the batsman gets a home run if the ball carries any fence "235 feet from the plate." This obviously is absurd, since any high school boy can hit a baseball 235 feet, and it is just such cheap home runs as these that have soured the baseball public on this sort of hippodroming.

The baseball club owners are finding out that a thing is valuable in exact ratio to the effort necessary to obtain it, and that this applies to home runs just as it does to every other commodity.

League Game Postponed On Account Of Races: Coming Game

There was no league match last Saturday on account of the Shanghai Paper Hunt Races, but a very interesting practice match was played on Sunday in glorious weather between two club sides resulting in a draw of 6 pts. all.

Colors who were playing two men short the first half were rather badly pushed about to begin with, resulting in whites' backs doing most of the attacking. Nield opened up time and again and enabled his three-quarters to get away but the opposing backs remained intact and it was not until just before half-time that whites scored. From the ensuing scrum in colors' twenty-five J. C. Stewart picked up the ball and carried it over for a try.

The extra points were added by Holdsworth who converted with an excellent effort.

Upon resumption of play colors forced matters somewhat and their play was well opened up by their halves, minor injuries delayed the game from time to time and Thompson had to retire with a twisted knee. Both three-quarter lines were now showing up well, and before long Biehard scored for colors from a pass out from Milligan. McClatchie who had been kicking well throughout the game placed a beautiful goal—no further score resulted—a fitting result to an eagerly contested game, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The Club will play their first League match next Saturday but it is not certain whether they will meet the Gunners or the Shanghai Scottish, and it is hoped that the injury to Thompson's knee, which has given way before, will not prevent him from playing for the Scottish in their next match.

CORRECTION

In the billiard championship forecast in Sunday's CHINA PRESS the name of the present champion was erroneously given as "Jacobson." In "Blue Chalk's" original copy, which was written in long hand, the champion's name was correctly given as Mr. Johnson. The error was made by a copyist who transcribed "Blue Chalk's" copy into typewritten form, and unfortunately the mistake was not detected. All Shanghai billiard players and devotees know, of course, that it is Mr. Johnson who is the present champion.

Scotland Beats Ireland, 2 To 0, In Last Three Minutes

(Reuter's Service)

Glasgow, March 1.—The International Association football match between Scotland and Ireland was played here today in bitterly cold weather, before an attendance of 10,000 persons.

Scotland beat Ireland by 2 goals to 0.

At the outset, the Irishmen, assisted by a stiff breeze, kept the play near the Scottish goal, but their shooting was weak. After that play was even and there was no score at the interval.

On resumption the Scottish swarmed to the attack but were met by a packed goal and a splendid custodian. The Irishmen had their share of the play in the later stages to the game, but the Scots were always on top. Three minutes before the finish Cunningham shot a magnificent goal and a minute later Morris scored the second, the Scots snatching a 2-0 victory.

Shanghai and Hongkew Wharf Annual Meeting

Mr. A. Brooke Smith, Chairman of the Board of Directors, presided at the annual meeting of the Shanghai and Hongkew Wharf Co., Ltd., which was held yesterday at No. 27 The Bund. He was supported by Messrs. C. Gordon Mackie, H. W. Lester, Pan Ching-poo, J. Knight, and N. Lees-Smith. Shares represented numbered 6,589.

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH

In addressing the meeting the Chairman said:—

With your approval I propose to take the report and statement of accounts, which have been in your hands for some days as read. The directors regret that the result of the year's working compares unfavorably with the showing for 1923, but I feel we should not be disappointed with the balance at credit of Profit and Loss Account considering the absence of trade activity. As usual an interim dividend of Tails 5 per share was paid last August and it is now recommended that a final dividend of Tails 10 per share be distributed, making Tails 15 for the year. It is proposed that we should allocate Tails 50,000 to Ordinary Repairs and Renewals Account, Tails 50,000 to Special Repairs and Renewals Account and Tails 50,000 to Depreciation Reserve—these amounts in last year and I venture to hope they will have your approval. The directors suggest that Tails 2,544.49 be paid as a bonus to the staff at the Wharves in recognition of the good work done on behalf of the Company. On June 30 last we redeemed the "D" debentures and the item of interest on Debentures will not appear in our next year's accounts.

Our property account has, you will notice, been increased by Tails 122,872.28, mainly due to the increase of much needed transit sheds at Pootung East Wharf. During 1923 we berthed seven steamers less than in 1922, but earning from storage decreased by Tails 155,298.79. While we handled practically the same amount of cargo as in the previous year it moved off rapidly and our godown accommodation was not utilized in the way we could have liked.

The Hongkew and Old Ningpo Wharves were kept fully employed during the year, but the Pootung Wharves could have berthed a great many more steamers. Outgoings on account of dredging have been heavy and with the deeper draught vessels that are now visiting Shanghai I am afraid our expenditure in this connection will increase.

To cover the ever increasing ratio of working expenses to revenue, particularly on the Shanghai side of the River, it has been arranged that from June 1 next a further advance of 10 percent on the local tariff for Wharves, Landing and Delivery Charges will be instituted. At the same time it is proposed to increase the return to vessels berthed at Pootung from 7 1/2 to 10 percent as the hope of making that side of the River more attractive to shipping companies. You may be aware that in spite of lower charges at Pootung most shipping companies prefer to have their vessels accommodated on the Shanghai side of the River. Storage charges are to remain unaltered and it is not anticipated that the advance in rates alone will increase our earnings materially.

As my predecessor remarked last year, we are now in a better position than we have ever been before, to take full advantage of any improvement in trade, which but for the unsettled state of the country would, I am confident, develop rapidly. Notwithstanding all such obstacles the year has opened fairly well and prospects are not unsatisfactory.

Before proposing the adoption of the report and accounts I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability any questions shareholders may desire to ask.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

No questions having been asked, the following resolutions were put to the board and were in each case unanimously adopted:—

Proposed by the Chairman and seconded by Mr. C. Gordon Mackie, "that the report and accounts be adopted, that a final dividend of Tails 10 per share be declared, making with the interim dividend of Tails 5 per share already paid, Tails 15 per share, and that the allocation of the balance of profit and loss account as recommended by the directors be passed."

Proposed by Mr. B. A. Clarke and seconded by Mr. J. W. Threlwell "that Messrs. C. G. S. Mackie, H. W. Lester, Pan Ching-poo, J. Knight and N. Lees-Smith be re-elected directors of the Company for the ensuing year."

Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be re-elected auditors for the ensuing year."

Dividend Warrants will be ready tomorrow.

Mr. Clarke moved a vote of thanks to the Chairman and Board of Directors, expressing his opinion that in view of the present bad state of business generally, the statement of accounts was very favorable indeed.

CHANG CHIEN, JR. TRADE MISSION ON TOUR OF U.S.

Heartily Welcome is Given to Chinese Industrial Party

(Reuter's American Service) Washington, Feb. 8.—The Chinese Industrial Commission, which has been visiting Italy, France, Germany and England, is spending February, continuing its investigations, in the United States. Mr. Chang Chien, head of the mission, and Mr. Chungtiao T. Chu, its secretary, were accorded a warm welcome to Washington by officials of the American Department of Commerce and by the heads of the various sections of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States on their visit here during the first week in February. The commission, which is composed of eight members, are making an extensive tour of American industrial centers, visiting important manufacturing plants and observing in detail American methods, particularly as to highway construction and the making of automobiles, the making of textile fabrics and textile machinery and the culture of cotton and other agricultural products.

The members of the commission have visited Boston and New York where they visited the leading manufacturing plants. Their tour of inspection includes Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, where the Ford manufacturing plant will be visited, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle and Vancouver, British Columbia, sailing from the latter city for home.

The Commission is semi-governmental, being sponsored by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce. An extensive detailed report will be prepared on the mission's tour of Europe and the United States. This will be made in duplicate to the Chinese Chambers of Commerce and to the Minister of Agriculture and Commerce of the Chinese Government.

Prince Matsukata Continues To Live In Spite Of Doctors

(Reuter's Pacific Service) Tokyo, March 2.—Prince Matsukata and Mark Twain have much in common. The death of the former was also greatly exaggerated.

By what medical men pronounced a miraculous recovery, the Prince, yesterday reported dead, is still living with a bare chance of recovery.

Yesterday morning at 11.15 Prince Matsukata was pronounced to be dead. Respiration and heart action had stopped, but shortly after that he showed signs of recovery, which were faint till the afternoon, when he acknowledged the hand pressure of Viscount Makino, the Emperor's messenger. This morning the Prince took nourishment and is now asleep.

All the Tokyo papers but two carried stories of the aged statesman's death.

(Eastern News Agency) Tokyo, March 3.—Today's condition of Prince Matsukata, who has miraculously recovered his consciousness is a little better.

JAPAN, SOVIET SETTLE ISSUE OF PASSPORTS

Japanese Agree To Give Visa To M. Siepack, Russ Newspaperman

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, March 3.—On the afternoon of March 1, Mr. Yoshizawa, Japanese Minister to Peking, called on M. Karakhan, Soviet Envoy in the Far East and conferred with the latter concerning various questions that have of late occurred between Japan and Soviet Russia.

With regard to the issue involving Japanese and Russian correspondents, arrangements were made that the Japanese Legation in Peking would give M. Siepack's passport to Japan, whereas the Soviet Government would permit Japanese correspondents to remain in Moscow. As for the question concerning the arrest of Captain Matsui by the Vladivostok authorities as well as the refusal by Soviet Russia to recognize the Japanese Consulate in Vladivostok, M. Karakhan has reserved his definite announcement in this respect, as he has not yet received the full details of the case.

It is learned that Mr. Yoshizawa had another interview with M. Karakhan this afternoon when, it is alleged, the Japanese Minister lodged a protest with the Soviet Envoy as to the case involving the arrest by the Vladivostok authorities of Mr. Gunji, Japanese Vice-Consul, two officials of the staff of the Japanese Consulate, ten Japanese residents and Lieutenant Commander Minoraka who is suffering from illness.

(Reuter's Pacific Service) Peking, March 3.—The Japanese Legation here was officially informed from Vladivostok that on February 26 the residences of three Japanese officials were searched under warrant issued by the Russian authorities. Two of the officials were arrested on the same day and the third, Mr. Gunji, the Vice-Consul, was arrested on the following day. Major Minoraka, Captain Matsui and ten Japanese residents were also arrested. The Japanese Legation of March 1 received the first official report of the arrest of Captain Matsui, Mr. Yoshizawa, the Japanese Minister, then called on M. Karakhan whom he asked to ascertain the facts and, if as reported, to take immediate steps to secure the release of Captain Matsui. M. Karakhan replied that he had not received any official report but promised to ascertain the facts. In the light of the further developments at Vladivostok, Mr. Yoshizawa will interview M. Karakhan today.

Cotton Supply Situation Is Without Precedent Since '61

American Crop Is Below Requirements And Present Foreign Yields Are Also Materially Smaller

BY C. T. REVERE
of Minds and Wines

With the opening of the new calendar year the cotton trade finds itself confronted by a supply situation without precedent since the Civil War. At the end of the cotton season in July, 1921, the surplus of cotton was 9,184,000 bales. In July, 1922, this surplus had dropped to 4,500,000. Last July it was 2,873,000. These increases on reserves resulted from two short crops in succession, one of only 7,877,000 bales, while last year only 9,729,000 bales were produced.

Meanwhile consumption, including linters—the fiber obtained from cottonseed—has been reported by Secretary Hester, of the New Orleans Exchange, at 12,804,000 for the season ending with July, 1922, and 12,631,000 for the season ending with July, 1923.

The crop this season has been estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 10,081,000 bales of 500 pounds each. In all probability it will be in the neighborhood of 9,900,000. This production, making a total of 10,600,000, including 700,000 bales of linters, together with 2,572,000 an aggregate of 13,172,000 bales is all the mills of the world have of American cotton to cover their needs over a period of approximately one year and two months, or until new cotton becomes available in volume.

Obviously, only the most drastic curtailment can bring consumption within the limits of available supply. Something like 2,000,000 bales must still be on hand at the end of July, 1924, to provide for August and September needs. Consequently, there will be left available for the mills only a little more than 11,000,000 bales to meet the demands of a consumption which for the last two years has been more than 1,500,000 bales above this amount.

These figures all relate to cotton of American growth, and the situation might not be so acute if the crops of other countries were not also very short this year. Recent estimates have placed the crop of East India at less than 4,000,000 bales. These figures are from private sources, and therefore, must be accepted with some reserve, although most of the news from India confirms the impression of a disappointing yield. The Egyptian crop is estimated at 5,960,000 cantars (a cantar is about 28 pounds) against 6,713,000 cantars last year. Great hopes have been built up on the production of Brazil for this year. Brazil raises excellent cotton, and early estimates had placed the probable production of that country at 1,000,000 bales, compared with 600,000 last year. Owing to the prevalence of an unexampled drought and the ravages of the pink boll worm, the Brazilian crop is now estimated at only 450,000 bales. Instead of being able to export cotton to other countries, Brazil may be driven to import from the United States if this is possible.

THE DEMAND SITUATION
When it comes to the feature of demand, the situation naturally is less bullish. Although cotton goods intrinsically are cheap, considering the acute situation in raw material, prices are relatively high, and jobbers and wholesalers have been in such a pessimistic mood that the buyers of the country have become imbued with the contagion of price resistance. Mills are curtailing, although at present not to the extent demanded by the shortage of raw material. This curtailment, however, should have the dual result of preventing cotton prices from going as high as they would if operations were at capacity, and moreover produce a stiffening effect on goods quotations on account of the reduced output of the finished product.

Goods buyers, and to some extent manufacturers, are resorting to a hand-to-mouth policy in purchases, awaiting the first definite indication from the new crop outlook. If this should prove unfavorable, that is, if farming operations should be retarded by a cold, wet and unseasonable planting season, the hope of relief from the new year's production would be materially lessened.

CHINESE WOMAN IS KILLED BY ARMED ROBBERS

Three Robberies Over Week End Brings Years Total To 31

A verdict that she was killed by persons unknown was returned yesterday at the inquest in the Mixed Court over the body of a Chinese woman who was murdered by armed robbers during the week-end. The murder featured one of the three armed robberies reported to police during that period.

The woman was killed when robbers raided a house at 1390 Tatung Road after gaining admittance in the house that they wanted to rent a room. Three women were in the house at the time and when the robbers attempted to ransack the place the sister of the house owner caught hold of one of the men. Two other robbers leveled revolvers at her and when she still clung to the robber they fired, one bullet striking her in the right shoulder and piercing the lung. She died a few minutes after being admitted to St. Elizabeth's Hospital. The robbers escaped with two gold bangles valued at $100.

At 6:50 o'clock Sunday evening five robbers robbed the home of a Chinese at 468 Chaufoong Road. An amah and two old ladies were the only ones present at the time and while one of the robbers held them four others ransacked the house securing clothing valued at $150. While they were in the house a woman from next door came to pay a visit and they relieved her of the woolen scarf she was wearing.

Early yesterday morning six robbers made a haul at a cigarette shop at 168 Yochow Road. They broke in the front door with a large stone and stole 1,500 coppers, 3 gold finger rings, 2 gold earrings and clothing, the total value being $150. Two were armed with revolvers and two with knives.

Japanese Espionage In Russia Alleged

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Tokio, March 2.—A Jiji special edition details the Russian reasons for the arrest of Japanese at Vladivostok. The Russians assert that the Japanese attempted to investigate the organic system of the Red Guard and the Red Fleet and of the Soviet administration, thus endangering vital secrets bearing on the welfare of Russia. Subsequent search of Japanese homes, they say, revealed evidence warranting the arrests.

The Foreign Office denies the espionage charge and accuses Russia of continuing petty annoyances in the hope of forcing Japan's recognition of the Soviet. Mr. Shimada left for Peking this morning.

ALL-DAY AFFAIR

The analysis yesterday was a laborious affair. While the officials of the Nanking Mint, including Director Chao En-han, were present at 10 o'clock, the process of analyzing did not begin until an hour later on account of the late arrival of the government representatives. In opening the program, Mr. Yu Hsi-lin, the assistant of the Ministry of Finance, related the events which culminated in the decision to hold the public demonstration. Since the question involved national honor and international confidence, he said, it was imperative that the truth be made public one way or the other.

Director Chao then expressed his appreciation for the keen interest taken by the public in the matter, which, he pointed out, would have perhaps been ignored in the olden days. The interest created showed there was increasing growth of national spirit which made the men in the street take more interest in public affairs. When Prof. Mabey made public his analysis, there was a difference of opinion among the officials of his mint. Some urged that the matter be ignored, while others, including himself, contended that if the matter was not cleared up, the position of the Nanking Mint might be misunderstood. He then invited the delegates to elect a committee which would participate in the analysis.

COMMITTEE ELECTED

After the officers were duly elected, Messrs. Z. C. Zing, chairman of the Native Bankers' Guild, and W. G. Hollier, secretary of the Foreign Exchange Bankers' Association were deputed by the meeting to proceed to any local bank they chose and pick twenty silver Nanking Mint dollars at random for analytical purposes while the assayers proceeded with the portions of the four dollars secured from Prof. Mabey. Messrs. Zing and Hollier went to the Bank of China and secured at random from two cases of Nanking dollars, Nos. 251 and 252 twenty coins.

At one o'clock, the meeting adjourned to attend a tiffin given by Director Chao. Meanwhile the chemists were careful in sealing the bottles under chemical process in order to avoid any possible tampering.

At the tiffin Mr. Dalton explained the process which was applied yesterday by the chemists in ascertaining the composition of the dollars. At 1:30, the meeting was reassembled and portions of four of the 20 dollars secured by Messrs. Zing and Hollier were also cut and submitted to chemical process as a separate test. This was branded as test No. 5 in the official report.

In order to avoid possible future dispute, each of the remaining portions of the four dollars used in Test No. 5 were cut into four pieces, which will be kept by the Nanking Mint. The Bank of China, the General Chamber of Commerce and the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China, who would offer them for further analysis if necessary. As to the portions submitted by Dr. Mabey and handed over by United States Marshal Van Ruskirk, care was taken yesterday not to use the marked

HAVE YOU A SICKLY CHILD?

How Baby's Own Tablets Help

For the information of parents who have ailing children, Mrs. A. R. Nelles, of Thessalon, Ontario, writes:
"When my baby was five months old she was very sick. I tried several medicines but they did her no good. I then sent for Baby's Own Tablets and from the outset they were of assistance to her. Later when she was teething we found the Tablets equally beneficial. The effect of the cutting teeth seemed to disorder her stomach, she did not retain her food and at one time we thought that she might not get better. I again gave her the Tablets with the same beneficial result as before. I can recommend the Tablets to all mothers who have sickly children."

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, are guaranteed absolutely pure and harmless even to the youngest infant. As a specific for infantile indigestion, constipation, colic, diarrhoea, teething pains, cramp and simple fever they are unrivalled. Of dealers, or post free, 60 cents the vial ($3 for six) from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

Trade Conditions Are Steady
But Difficult, Says Council Member
(Reuter's Service)
Delhi, Feb. 29.—In the Legislative Assembly today, Sir Basil Blackett, Finance Member of the Executive Council, produced a balanced budget for the past ten years. He said that the financial position was more satisfactory than in the previous twelve months, and estimated, on the existing taxation, for a surplus of nearly three and a half crores next year.

Practically the only important tariff change was a reduction, in the excise duty on motor-spirit by one and a half annas a gallon. The sale tax had yielded three crores less than expected.

The question of reduction would be left to the Assembly to decide. Military expenditure next year would show a considerable reduction. Trade conditions were steady but difficult. There was a prospect that the visible balance of trade in favor of India might reach a record.

Cabinet Considers
Dr. Wang's Report
(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, March 2.—Chinese newspapers report that Dr. C. T. Wang has submitted a report to the Cabinet which will be considered on Tuesday. It is stated to contain a proposed plan to bring about completion of the preliminary negotiations between Russia and China.

Foresee No Change
In Belgian Policy
(French Wireless through Reuter)
Paris, Feb. 29.—The majority of the Belgian newspapers consider that the fall of the Cabinet does not imply a change in general policy. The new head of the Government may be M. Van der Vyver, the Minister of Economic Affairs in the resigning Cabinet, M. Pouillet, the former President of the Chamber, or M. Houtart, a Catholic Deputy. M. Tournai and M. Rankin, the advocates of the commercial treaty, have been rejected.

Military Road To Szechuen Plan Of Marshal Wu Pei-fu

(Independent News Service)
Hankow, Feb. 25.—Encouraged by his recent success in capturing Chengtu and other posts in Szechuen, General Wu Pei-fu has urged Tsuchun Hsiao to formulate plans to construct a motor road from Hupeh through Szechuen to facilitate communication between the two provinces. It seems to be General Wu's impression that now that Szechuen has been conquered, some permanent scheme should be devised to connect Szechuen with his sphere of influence in the north. However, it is not possible at present to secure financial support from Hupeh, and for this reason, Gen. Hsiao has proposed to organize a company to issue shares in order to undertake this important work. In the meantime, he has despatched a corps of surveyors from the Hupeh Military Survey School to Shai to begin the preliminary survey.

WU PEI-FU CALM AS GUEST POINTS REVOLVER AT HIM

Peking, Feb. 26.—Private dispatches from Loyang today tell of an amusing incident which happened during the interview between General Wu Pei-fu and General Chang Ching-yao, former Tschun of Hunan, a few days ago. General Wu had invited General Chang to visit him to discuss means of curbing those elements known to be opposed to the Chihli party, especially the Anhui faction. During the interview, so goes the story, General Wu was very amiable and was careful to refrain from touching upon any of the grievances that formerly existed between the two. At the close of the interview General Chang was invited to a banquet and consented, not without a degree of nervousness. The banquet had scarcely been started when the lights suddenly went out and the suspicious guest, fearing an assassination plot, drew out his revolver and pointed it in the direction where General Wu was sitting. Chang's guards doing the same. Presently the lights went on again. General Wu saw the incident clearly but assumed an unconcerned attitude, treating the matter as a joke. A few moments later the lights again went out but this time General Chang was confident there was no plot against him and sat quietly until they again appeared. The result was that the following day another and more confidential interview was held between the two. That it was satisfactory is indicated by the fact that General Wu has recommended General Chang for a high Government post where, however, he will have but little power. Chang Ching-yao is the man against whose presence in Peking or giving of any honors the American Legation recently protested. He was deposed at the instance of the American Legation because of the murder of an American, Dr. Reimert, in his province. The Loyang dinner incident, however, shows how much confidence the various Warlords have in one another.

TAGORE TO TOUR CHINA IF PLANS ARE APPROVED

Peking, Feb. 26.—The great Indian philosopher, Rabindranath Tagore, has signified his willingness to come to China this year and the Chinese scholars who are responsible for his coming have set April as the time for his arrival. World is still being awaited from India to learn if that is satisfactory.

Tagore will come to China under the same auspices as did Dr. John Dewey and Bertrand Russell. The scholar Liang Chi-chao is a leading member of the group extending the invitation. It is expected that Tagore will give many lectures throughout China and play a part in creating a common understanding between the Asiatic peoples. Several students are now at work translating some of the Indian's English works into the Chinese language so that he might be the better known when he arrives.

Bandit's Daughter Elopes With Captive

One of the woman bandits in the Sun Mei-yao group has two young daughters who are reported to be very pretty and coquettish. One of them got entangled in a love affair with a captive whom the bandits captured from a wealthy family. Having concluded an agreement between themselves, the girl allowed herself to be kidnapped by the captive. Both escaped in safety. Travellers now believe that it is not always misfortune to be captured by bandits. Misery sometimes has its reward.

"Save your eyes"

A REASON FOR that supremacy which so decidedly makes our glasses excel, is that we have precision instruments in the hand of a graduate optometrist to conduct scientific sight-testing, and a perfectly equipped shop in which to make high-grade lenses.

What Day Of The Week Is A Given Date?

BY ST. ANGE ZER
The formula and the example, as printed in THE CHINA PRESS of February 29, were not at all clear, since the type did not conform to that which would be used in a textbook of mathematics.

In order to find on what day of the week a certain date occurred or will occur, add together (1) one number less than the given year; (2) that number divided by 4; (3) that number divided by 400; subtract that number divided by 100, and finally add the number of the Day, counting from the beginning of the year. In the foregoing divisions by 4, 400, and 100 neglect any fractional results. Now divide the final number by 7 and the result will be a whole number with perhaps something left over. If there is nothing left over the date is on Sunday; otherwise what is left over must be counted forward from Sunday to determine the day.

For example, take July 4, 1776. Here we must add 1775, plus 1775 divided by 4, plus 1775 divided by 400; subtract 1775 divided by 100, and again add 186, because July 4 was the 186th day of that year.

Add as follows: 1775
1775 divided by 4 443
1775 divided by 400 4
Subtract 1775 divided by 100 17
Add the day of the year 186
Divide this by 7 7 2391
341 with a remainder 4.

Count four days from Sunday and we get Thursday, which is the required day. Try the formula for the day of your own birth.

AMERICAN POPULATION OF PEKING IS 1,236

Peking, Feb. 12.—The American population of Peking, including 340 enlisted men in the Legation Guard, numbers 1,236, according to a census made by the mounted detachment of the Marine Guard. Among the adults, excluding the enlisted men there are 489 women and 407 men. Unmarried women number 151, bachelors 65.

Counting heads of families or single women not in families, 163 of the Americans are connected with mission work; 71 are connected with the Peking Union Medical College; 33 are in educational work, including the American members of the Tsinghua College staff; 57 are in business, and 90, including the guard officers, are connected with or attached to the American Legation.

The census shows 15 Americans as employees of or advisers to the Chinese Government and reveals the presence in the American community in the Chinese capital of an explorer, two archaeologists, a geologist, a philosopher and nine newspaper men.

Woman Prisoner Weds Police Escort

Peking, Feb. 28.—A touching little romance is told in police circles here to the effect that a woman, by the name of Chang was arrested in Mukden on the charge of kidnapping and was sent back to Peking to aid in the capture of her accomplice. She weaned (to have a way with her for during the trip down she so completely raved of her police escort, that the two are now enjoying a honeymoon at Hailien and it is expected that her marriage will save her from the Mukden court.

A.P.C. Godown At Peking Attacked By Mystery Fire

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, Feb. 27.—A fire broke out at the Asiatic Petroleum Company's godown premises outside the Hama-men yesterday morning at 4 o'clock, the godown and a small shed were completely destroyed. Fortunately the tank was not injured. Chinese living on the premises state that the place was locked up as usual on Monday night and they heard an explosion at 4 o'clock next morning. No one had entered the premises meanwhile.

A Chinese fire brigade soon appeared on the scene and did excellent work in restricting the area of the fire. There is said to be little doubt that the Standard Oil Company's godown next door would have been destroyed but for the work of the Chinese firemen.

The Taku correspondent of the Peking and Tientsin Times writes:—

Colonel (Brevet Major General) Chen Kuo-hsien is suffering from a complaint which has now been identified by the Delegates of the Ministry of War as Pseudotuberculosis. He is in a state of collapse, and the prospects of an early recovery are not considered hopeful. Complete rest, an ample supply of hot-water bottles, and the prohibition of all reading—particularly of newspapers—have been prescribed. It is reported that the sufferer has received a telegram of condolence from General Feng Yuhshang.

U. S. Consul Heads Searching Party For Stolen Launch

Peking, Feb. 27.—Prominent mention is made in a despatch received from Canton of Mr. Culver B. Chamberlain, United States Vice Consul at that place, who is well known in Peking as a former student interpreter attached to the American Legation. It appears that a group of Chinese soldiers spirited away a launch belonging to the Gary Company, an American firm. Thereupon Vice Consul Chamberlain, heading a company of United States marines from the U.S.S. Asheville, proceeded in search of the missing launch. It was finally run down without a display of arms and the incident closed.

Unknown Soldier Of France Honored By Egyptian Minister

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, March 2.—The Egyptian Minister yesterday on behalf of King Fuad placed on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier a replica of an Egyptian triumphal arch of the Pharaonic period carved in Lorraine stone. The Minister declared that he was performing an act of homage on the part of Egypt to France's immortal soldier.

General Gouraud, in a speech of thanks, said that the act was the most eloquent demonstration of the ancient friendship between France and Egypt.

Urges Importance Of Singapore Base

(Reuter's Service)
Perth, March 1.—The Acting Premier, Dr. Earle Page, made speeches at a dinner yesterday evening and at a luncheon today on the occasion of the visit of the British Naval Squadron, in the course of both of which he laid stress on the importance of the construction of a naval base at Singapore or elsewhere. He said that, if this was accomplished, Australia could receive periodical visits from the main British Fleet and men would be stimulated to join the Australian Navy.

Rear-Admiral Sir Frederick Field, replying on both occasions, said that Singapore represented a gateway which must be defended. It was an absolutely key position, but Australia would require other bases where Australian ships could be repaired.

Wedding

FRIEDMAN-RAYMOND

Ohel Rachel Synagogue was the scene of a pretty wedding on Sunday afternoon, when Miss Kate Raymond, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Raymond, of Hongkong, became the bride of Mr. Max Friedman, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Friedman.

The bride who was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. J. H. Solomon, wore a gown of white tulle, draped at the side with a clasp of brilliantia from which depended streamers of pearls. The wedding veil of white embroidered tulle was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms and the bride's bouquet was of white carnations, Miss Mabel Solomon, who was bridesmaid, wore a quaint frock of pink tulle and carried pink carnations and the bridesmaids—Misses Esther Sternberg, Naomi Joseph, Hannah and Florence Solomon—were picturesque figures in pastel shades of tulle, mauve, pale green and shell pink, trimmed with silver lace. With these frocks were worn hats of silver lace and the bridesmaids carried bouquets of sweet peas. Little Miss Hilda Solomon was the flower girl, dressed in pink tulle, trimmed with lover's knots of forget-me-nots, and she carried a basket of sweet peas. Mrs. J. H. Solomon, sister of the bride, wore a gown of new pink trimmed with silver lace.

The best man was Mr. Max Sternberg, and the following acted as canopy-bearers: Messrs. E. Sternberg, H. Joseph, W. Joseph and S. Solomon.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Carlton, which was decorated with spring flowers and bamboo. A large number of friends of the happy couple gathered to offer their congratulations. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Friedman left for Hangchow, where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride wearing a costume of white silk with a silver lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Friedman will make their home in Saigon.

Landon Is Speaker At Anglo-American Tiffin

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking February 29.—Mr. Percival Landon, well known writer and cravdler, was the guest of honor at the first tiffin held this year under the auspices of the Anglo-American Association. Sir Francis Aclen, Chairman, presided over a large attendance.

Tiffin, over, the Chairman read the report of the Secretary and Treasurer for last year which had not been read at the annual meeting owing to the absence from Peking of Mr. Donald Fraser. The report showed that the membership of the Association numbered 242. The report and the statement of accounts were unanimously approved.

Mr. Landon, having been introduced to the gathering by the Chairman, in a few happy remarks, spoke in very charming manner upon the relations between the two Anglo-Saxon races, pointing out that the units of the two nations were apt to mistake the basis of their mutual relations, overlooking the fact that they knew each other too well. They exercised the privileges of brothers to criticize each other severely, but the two races could not afford to get on without each other. It was not a matter of choice. It was a matter of necessity. The future of the two countries lay in a spirit of frankness. No matter how they treated their future was bound up together, but it would come more easily if they did not surround it with soft soap. Referring to the relationship of the United States to the League of Nations, he expressed the belief that the United States could accomplish good work outside the League, and in conclusion declared that there would be no great evil done in the world in future with the consent of the two great nations. A cordial vote of thanks to the speaker, concluded the proceedings.

Kalgan Notes

(China Press Correspondence)

Kalgan, Feb. 28.—Yesterday the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baldwin who died in Peking was brought back here and buried in the foreign cemetery. The baby was only eleven days old.

The schools both government and mission have opened again after the New Year's holidays. Miss Margaret Sloane of the Girls' school at the Methodist Protestant Mission has left on her way back to America and Mrs. Vera Cronquist Hines formerly a member of the Mission has returned from the Southern Baptist Mission at Shanghai to assist in the Girls' school.

Several British Army officers have been here buying ponies and mules for the Army at Hongkong. February has been about the coldest February in years. There has been several small snow-falls here at Kalgan and much more is reported on the plains North and West of here.

Coalition Opposed By Lloyd George

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 1.—Mr. Lloyd George, speaking at Harlepool today, urged in view of the serious situation at home and abroad, forgiveness, toleration and sympathy for the Labor Government, whose mistakes hitherto, he said, had been largely mistakes of inexperience. "I am all for leaving them for some time between the handles of the plough," he declared. "They will soon have aching backs and weary hearts but very much wiser heads."

The former Premier expressed the opinion that a coalition was not now a practical alternative. It was more vital than ever to Britain's well-being that Liberal sentiment should be strengthened.

FIND THE WOMAN!

The detective force of a great city found that the most baffling and difficult job that ever confronted them lay in trying to capture a woman criminal, known as "The White Tiger."

A master mind, with a genius for planning big daring "jobs" she directed her ring of international crooks against the wealth of society like a field marshal directing his battalions.

Mysterious, seductive and elusive, she moved through the inner circles of the rich, looting jewels—and stealing hearts!

"Find the Woman" who could have portrayed the role of Sylvia Donelli, "The White Tiger" with such genuine ferocity intermingled with such melting tenderness as that displayed by Priscilla Dean in this thrilling and beautiful romance of the underworld! Volcanic! Fiery! Vivid! Thrilling! With a love story that will keep you on edge!

Three hearts stopped beating—someone was at the door.

THE SECOND GREAT RECITAL

by

Mme. KARINSKAYA

No Lover of Music Should Miss the wonderful interpretation by this great artiste of Russian Folk-Songs, Gipsy Tabor-Songs and Romances beloved by Dostoyevsky, Lermontoff, Pushkin and Tolstoy, the great writers of Russia.

Read Some of the Enthusiastic Reports:

A most enjoyable recital was given by Mme. KARINSKAYA at the P.U.M. auditorium under the auspices of the Institute of Fine Arts yesterday evening. The singer has a wonderful voice and her numbers were well chosen. (The Far Eastern Times, 28 Dec., 1923).

The Russian Star is second to none, and one may congratulate Tientsin on the chance to hear and see her. Her fresh, powerful voice of unusual amplitude, deep contralto rising to silvery soprano, is not met often and is worth hearing.

She is a first class artist performer, emphasizing her singing with actor's play that makes intelligible the spirit and sense of a foreign song even to those who do not know the language.

The acting is enhanced by the brilliant costumes of the Russian nobility worn three centuries ago. (Peking and Tientsin Times, 27th Jan., 1924)

MME. KARINSKAYA will sing new numbers which were not included in the first concert.

Admission: $1.00, $2.00 and $3.00

FATAL ACCIDENT ON MOTOR LINE OUT OF WEIHSIEN

(China Press Correspondence)

Hwanghsien, Shantung, Feb. 23.—Some days ago there was an automobile wreck on the Chefoo-Weihsien motor line half-way between Hwanghsien and Lungkow. The driver, who had been drinking heavily, had fallen behind with his car, which was proceeding from Weihsien to Chefoo. He was driving fast to catch up with the rest of the train and ran into a bridge, resulting in the instant death of one of the drivers. The passengers barely escaped from death or serious injury, but there were no serious injuries beside that of the driver. Some of the drivers on the road are very careless and when one is riding in the car with such a driver he is in constant danger of injury or death. It is hoped that this will result in fewer accidents in the future.

At the city of Chao Yuan, about 80 li south of Hwanghsien, a man was killed by the falling in of the roof of a bath house some days ago. There is a natural spring here and many people cook vegetables and bathe in its waters. While the above mentioned man was bathing in the pool, the roof suddenly collapsed, resulting in injuries from which he died a day or two afterwards. This spring contains sulphur and is popular for bathing. According to the new year festivities, the people in this country are very prosperous. They celebrated the new year season with a great vim. Lanterns, fireworks, and green trees were greatly in evidence. The using of green pine trees in their celebrations is a new intervention, which some of the Chinese say, was learned from the westerners.

SOVIET LEADER IS EN ROUTE TO LONDON, REPORT

Alarm Felt in Russia Over New Expulsion Orders

(Reuter's Service)
Moscow, March 2.—The Soviet Government's renewed activity in expelling not only adherents of the new economic policy, but also professional men accused of currency speculation has again awakened alarm in Russia.

It is reported that President Rykoff has left Moscow on his way to London to confer with Mr. Ramsay MacDonald.

Tu At Peace With Wen Following Wu's Visit At Nanking

Peking, Feb. 27.—A special report from Nanking states that the Minister of Communications, Admiral Wu Yu-lin, arrived there on the afternoon of the 24th, and after a conference with General Chi Hsiang-yan and Admiral Tu Shih-kuei, commander of the fleet at Nanking it was announced that a peace pact had been worked out to settle difficulty between Admiral Wen Shui-teh at Tsingtao.

Upon his arrival at Hsia Kwau, a suburb of Nanking, at four o'clock, Admiral Wu was met by General Kun, Pacification Commissioner of Nanking, representing the Civil and Military Governors, and by Admiral Tu Shih-kuei himself. The party immediately went to the Admiral's headquarters, later leaving for Nanking city. Following a dinner at the Tuchun's Yamen in the evening, Minister Wu and Tuchun Chi held a three hour conference to which Admiral Tu was later admitted. The latter reported that he sent his latest telegram to Peking with the idea of making explanation to the Government, and that he had no other desire than to point out the need for strict discipline in naval affairs. He considered it essential for Admiral Wen upon his return to the allegiance of the Peking Government to obey the commands of the Commander-in-Chief of the Navy. That according to Admiral Tu, was his sole motive in sending the telegram.

Minister Wu Yu-lin replied that being a naval officer himself, he was cognizant of naval administration, and realized that Admiral Wen's behavior was not proper, about which he had spoken to Admiral Li Ting-hsin before leaving for Loyang. He added, however, that the matter at any rate must be settled amicably so that further conflict between the duties of Admiral Tu and Admiral Wen might be avoided. To that end, it is reported that three measures will be adopted: 1. The Government will issue an order reprimanding Admiral Wen Shui-teh's men warning them hereafter to be careful not to violate the laws of the navy; 2. Admiral Wen Shui-teh will be appointed Defense Commissioner of the Po Hai and while the fleet returned from Canton will be under his control, the men will nominally remain under commands of Admiral Tu; 3. The monthly expenses of the Defense Commissioner of Po Hai shall come from the China Ac funds.

This proposal of Minister Wu is reported to be acceptable to Admiral Tu and Marshal Chi but it will require confirmation before becoming effective. A wire has been sent to Loyang and if Marshal Wu Pei-fu's reply reached Nanking last night, Admiral Wu planned to leave Nanking this afternoon for Peking, stopping en route at Tsinanfu, for a day or less, consulting with Civil Governor Hsiung Pin-chi and the Tail of Shantung, Cheng Shih-chi.

Winston Churchill ill Favors Alignment With Conservatives

(Reuter's Service)
London, March 2.—Mr. Winston Churchill announces his willingness to stand as independent Constitutional candidate in the byelection for the Westminster Abbey Division. He declares that he does not intend to change his position on the main questions of public policy but wishes to co-operate with the Conservative Party in opposing the Socialist Party and its allies, whoever they may be.

He adds that there must be hundreds of thousands of Liberals who, conscientiously feel similarly and see at this juncture no reason why they should not cooperate with the Conservatives on lines of the late Government's King's Speech and Mr. Baldwin's recent fiscal declaration.

Dr. Sao-Ke Alfred Sze And The Boxer Indemnity

DR. SAO-KE ALFRED SZE, Chinese Minister in Washington delivered an address in New York on January 12 before the Ohio Society in which he made reference to the balance of the American share of the Boxer Indemnity (about $15,000,000) which it is apparently the intention of the United States Government to return to China in the near future. According to Dr. Sze, Senator Lodge, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate has again introduced a resolution providing for the return of this money to China. A similar resolution introduced in the last session of Congress passed the Senate but failed to be brought to a vote in the House. Although nothing is known regarding the wording of the present resolution, the previous one which was recommended by Secretary of State Hughes, merely authorised the return of the money to China "at the discretion of the President of the United States."

This is a matter of very great interest to American residents in China for the reason that the future friendly relations of China and America depend largely upon the methods to be adopted in the expenditure of this money. America was the first nation to return a portion of the Boxer Indemnity ($10,785,286.12 in 1907) which has been used in the support of Tsing Hua College at Peking and in the payment of the expenses of Chinese students in the United States. Although there may be just criticism of the methods which have been applied in the management of Tsing Hua College both from the standpoint of administration and the method of selecting students for study in America the general idea underlying the return of the indemnity was sound as is shown in the announced intentions of other nations to follow the precedent set by America some seventeen years ago.

Since it has become known that there was a chance of the U. S. Government returning the final balance of the indemnity to China a number of propositions have been advanced covering the use of the money. These propositions range all the way from the Hwai Valley Conservancy scheme to various educational projects. To date, the American chambers of commerce in China, which organisations manifestly should be interested in this subject, have taken no action from the standpoint of endorsing any special scheme. That they are interested in the subject however is shown in the following paragraph from a resolution adopted at the last annual meeting of the Associated American Chambers of Commerce in China held on October 16 and 17 of last year:

"The Associated American Chambers of Commerce in China are of the opinion, that any expenditure of the balance of the American share of the Boxer Indemnity surplus for educational or other purposes in China should be closely supervised by an American committee composed of representatives of the United diplomatic consular services and of the American business and missionary organisations in China."

Woman Suffrage In Britain

It was only to be expected that having obtained a modified form of suffrage in Great Britain women should seek to be placed on exactly the same electoral footing as men. The general aim of the measure now before the British Parliament is designed to give to women the same voting rights as those enjoyed by the other sex and it is an interesting indication of the present state of affairs that the bill was passed for second reading, which entails its passage into committee, upon emergence therefrom the Deputy Leader of the House has promised the Government will try to find time to pass it into law.

With the exception of certain residential conditions, it is apparent that, should the bill pass, Great Britain will have what practically amounts to universal suffrage. Indeed Labor is practically committed to such a program, for no other party so completely insists on the duty of the State to the individual, and though the residential qualification will be the last barrier to be swept aside, there can be little doubt but that eventually the attainment of the age of twenty-one by a British subject will be all that is necessary to secure for him or her the right to vote in Parliamentary or local elections. The qualification at present remaining may even now be looked upon, not as one essential in good in principle, but rather as a means of maintaining an adequate check upon the voters' lists, a desideratum which must always be kept in view in any reform of the British electoral system.

Since women have been allowed to take an active part in the government of Britain, and have assumed practically the full responsibility that citizenship entails, many old beliefs have been destroyed. Women have acted on juries and continue to do so in a manner which belied prophecy. Instead of being swayed by mere sentiment, it has been the expressed opinion of many judges, that they have shown themselves just as capable as men of divesting themselves of sentimental considerations, and doing their duty as impartially as the sex which has so long been entrusted with a monopoly in these matters. While in matters political, it has been found that women are influenced by practically the same considerations as men in their choice of representatives, with the exception, perhaps, that they pay greater attention to questions of social reform and the passage of measures calculated to have an immediate effect upon their own sphere of activities. It is undoubtedly an important consideration that the extension of the franchise on the lines suggested by the proposed Bill would have the effect of adding sufficient women to the voting list to place them in the majority over the men, but there is no reason to believe that this would swamp the latter at the polls, unless it were possible for all the women to combine for such a purpose. Experience on the other hand shows that opinion amongst women is just as much divided as amongst men, and there is at present little evidence to prove that their addition to the list of electors has done more than swell the numbers using their suffrages for the purpose of deciding important national questions.

Von Ludendorff's Defence

THE only item of interest in the farcical trial of Gen. von Ludendorff for rebellion in Bavaria, is the speech which he delivered in his own behalf, and the manner in which it has been received. However unpopular he may have been in the closing stages of the War, it is an undoubted fact that his leadership of the abortive outbreak, and the defence which he has put up on his trial have done much to restore the popularity he once had. Von Ludendorff undoubtedly saw, in the tendencies of last year, a greater cleavage between the German peoples and monarchism than was apparent before. A monarchist at heart, and one who has had the courage of definitely announcing it, he dreaded Republicanism almost as much as he feared Communism and Separatism, but because he was of the opinion that the monarchical question could not be solved at this present juncture, he engaged in a revolt which had as its object the preservation of the present status as against a drifting towards the domination of other influences which he contends are other than German.

Nationalism, which he has contended in his defence was the price paid for the reconciliation of General von Lossow and Gen. von Seeck, was threatened with destruction when he and his fellows embarked on a revolt which was to save the Germany of Bismarck and his claim that through his action he has saved it may not be entirely the bombast which it appears to be on its face.

The rest of Europe certainly does not want the establishment of either a socialist or communist government in Germany, though the opinion may be expressed that the government it has at present is just as bad for the rest of the world. On the other hand France would not care to see the re-establishment of a monarchy and the unification of Germany under any policy which bore a family resemblance to that of Bismarck. For she would fear, and rightly so, German re-embarkation on a program which has already led to such universal distress. It is impossible to believe that the reestablishment of any monarchy, be it Hohenzollern or not, would have any other result than the reaffirmation of those national ambitions which led Germany to defeat and the creation of another cause of anxiety for the rest of Europe. On the other hand a Germany which went from bad to worse along the lines of Marxism would be no less of a threat to the peace of Europe. Yet we doubt greatly, whether Gen. von Ludendorff had the sole aim in view of preventing the backsliding of his native country, and its restoration to a form of government which he loved so well. A member of the most ardent group of militarists, one who sustained a personal as well as a national defeat, it is to be believed that he desired first of all the supremacy of that caste of which for so long he was an outstanding figure.

We are not to be deceived by the "high falutin" periods which aroused such favorable impressions in Germany, and the fact that the proposed separation was for the purpose of again bringing Bavaria into line with the nationalist, and monarchical organisations of the North, can mean nothing less than that Gen. von Ludendorff was attempting to bring Bavaria back to the Prussian fold, by somewhat of a roundabout road.

Australia's New Capital—Canberra

THE Cabinet of the Commonwealth of Australia met during January just past for the first time in the new city of Canberra a capital city unique from the standpoint that outside of Washington D. C. it is the only time that a nation actually set about building an entirely new city for the purpose of housing the central government. The site now occupied by Washington, the capital of the United States was selected by George Washington, the first president, and when first surveyed consisted of vacant land much of it swampy on the banks of the Potomac River. The plan for Washington was drawn up by a French architect, Major L'Enfant.

The plan for Canberra, the new capital of Australia, was likewise drawn up by a foreigner, Mr. W. B. Griffin of Chicago who won the international competition for a design. The plan embraces 100 square miles and the complete scheme includes a capital, houses of parliament, residences of officials including the governor-general, the prime minister and departmental buildings. Several millions of dollars have already been expended on the plan and the fact that the Cabinet is now meeting in the new Capital is most interesting for the reason that it marks the end of a 20-year political fight caused by the jealousies of the two states over the question of the permanent location of the federal government. New South Wales and Victoria both wanted the national Capital and they finally had to settle the question by creating a new city which was to be not more than 100 miles from Sydney, the capital of New South Wales.

The name of the Capital city was selected by Lady Denman, wife of the Governor-General in 1913 and was so-called from the district in which it is located. The Australians are advertising their new capital as the only capital in the world from which a whole continent can be controlled.

Our Literary Column

EXCERPTS FROM GREAT WRITERS

By: Mothy

Even let us love honor, patriotism, art, or poultry—if we can find no fellow-mortal to indulge upon—as the young woman loves the moon which her eyes have so often and delightedly beheld.

Finer treasure than these gentle rays of affection we shall find nowhere "between Heaven and Charing Cross;" for the power that would give us back our youth we can neither buy nor sell.

Amid the petulant gravity and sombre heavy-heartedness of the average life-effort it is a comforting sight to see the easy way in which the slightest exercise of man's elemental and eternal graciousness scatters, as if they were mere shadows, the imposing barriers and fortified summits of custom's business, and the tyrannous domination of long-accredited ideals.

"That mood into which a friend can bring us, is his dominion over us," says a great philosopher; they are the true missionaries who can "convert" us by such authority, even though they of themselves be unconscious of such great effect.

I knew a man who was more indebted to the ministrations of a painful neuralgia, than to the happy society of his own kind-folk, for the first only taught him, that sympathy which ennobles and enlarges life.

Tennyson could have paid no higher tribute to the electric potency of subduing goodness, than the effect attributed to the presence of Arthur Hallam, of whom he says that:

"The stern were milk when thou wert by;
The flippant put himself to school
And heard thee; and the brazen fool
Was softened, and he knew not why."

We ought to be thankful at all times for any passion which can make us feel the inadequacy of our own condition; and the necessity for some help and sympathy of our kind.

Only a blind and ignorant creature boasts that he is self-made; he cannot see that even his strength is a debtor to the brains and guidance of the man of science; he is a poor mariner who forgets the lunar provision of high tides.

A man alone is only half a man—an impotent splendor to creation, he requires the magnetism of like personalities to extract and excite the latent forces of his high estate.

There does not exist a pleasure so entirely selfish that it can thoroughly satisfy without any desire whatever to communicate it—even the most exquisite scenery that the eye can look upon is spoiled in some degree if we are without a friend to share and enjoy it with; if this is the case, we cannot rest until we have communicated in some manner the fine impression we received, we feel it would be, indeed, base to let die without an effort such an invigorating memory, "like a ripe date which in the desert falls without a hand to gather it."

"Go ye into all the world and preach the good news (god-spell) to every creature;" this seems the one rational commandment in times of deep joy and peace.

This is the injunction "whose service is perfect freedom," which all saints, sages, poets, and prophets have ever a consuming passion to fulfill; it is the essence of all religions, sciences, and endeavors of mortal man that whatever things are lovely and of good report, shall be of an universal benefit; that not one man or woman shall have power to say that for all mankind except for such as is:

"The vision came and went.
The light shone and was spent."

Friends are precious idols that deservedly adorn the high places in this Temple of Appearances, which we call the "sum of things," worthy they of all worship and honor in their high estate; yes, even though from confusion of thought we should "worship we know not what," it will make no difference. All light comes from the sun. "The heathen in their blindness bowed down to wood and stone"—now their eyes are open, they don't bow down at all. "The conscious missionary," said a Bishop of London once, "is a bore."

Doctrine And Faith—Defenses

"For other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ."—I. Cor. 3:11.

Let us never imagine that we can strengthen Christianity by leaving out the great doctrines which have given it life and power.

Faith is not a mere matter of feeling.

It is the acceptance of revealed truth in regard to God and the world, Christ and the soul, duty and immortality.

What the world wants today is a strong, true, vital preaching of doctrine.

But we must put the emphasis of our preaching where it belongs, where Christ puts it, on the doctrines that are most important to human life and happiness.

I will not admit that it makes no difference to a man of this age whether or not he believes in the personal God and the Divine Christ.

If he really believes it makes all the difference between spiritual strength and spiritual weakness, between optimism and pessimism.

I will not admit that it makes no difference to a learned scholar or a simple laborer whether he accepts or ignores the doctrine of the atonement, the doctrine of personal immortality.

If he knows that Christ died for him, that there is a future beyond the grave, it makes all the difference between despair and hope, between the hopeless faith of a being that is puffed out like a candle and the joyful power of an endless life.

"Thou shalt not."—Ex. 20:13.

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

polished gentleman and the truculent, uncultured boor exist side by side, and the good is mixed with the bad in a thoroughly human proportion. They possess qualities that are peculiarly endearing to sympathetic Occidentals, who read in these faces the indelible impress which twenty centuries of strange history has left upon them.

"The Japanese are universally courteous and have no such profane epithets as the English speaking people. They do not know how to swear."

One of the greatest authorities was Lafcadio Hearn, who lived most of his life in Japan and married a Japanese woman. He wrote:

"After living a long time among the Japanese, I know now understand them no better now than the first day I landed among them. The spirit of the nation is unique; it combines Oriental virtue and European practicality. The Japanese have absorbed all of our civilization, and yet keep it concealed under the flower and poetry of ancient Japan. From this union of apparently discordant characteristics is born an inscrutable, strange and mysterious forcefulness."

Books And So Forth

By Frederic F. Van De Water (F. F. V.)

A human being—any human being, even the most prosaic and stodgy—is, we are sure, much more potentially thrilling and absorbing than the greatest romance ever yet captured by paper and ink. We doubt whether it is a pure egotism that makes us consider ourselves the most interesting thing in creation. It seems to us that egotism would be indicated more definitely if we were eager to share with others the mysteries and surprises of ourself.

As it is, we have no desire to take even our closest intimates into the hidden engine room of our being to watch the wheels go round. We have a lively suspicion that, if we did, our audience would take one incredulous look and then flee, screaming, up the ladder to the pleasant outside world once more. That suspicion, however, does not dull in the least our semi-impersonal interest in our personal desires and reactions. We are, to ourselves, the most completely entertaining thing we know. Which is only, we suspect, because we are the one person whom we know thoroughly.

In a library crammed with volumes printed in Arabic we should find in time that the sole English book of the collection held a breathless interest for us.

even if it were only a volume of board of trade reports for 1888. We should be willing to grant that the other occupants of the library were potentially much more thrilling than this, but the alien tongue in which they were written would keep that from being anything more than a theory.

There is no false humility, we believe, in our assertion that in a city of 7,000,000 persons there are 6,999,999 egos more engrossing than ours. We continue to be fascinated by our own because propriety and custom and taboos and laws keep us from being able to read and comprehend these other human volumes. They constitute, we imagine, absorbing literature for the leisure hours of gods weary with the planning of new universes.

Man-made literature is, to our way of thinking, only a feeble, distorted, half-caught reflection of the hidden drama and epic that continually march onward through every human organism. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the author who creates fictional characters has only the most cursory acquaintance with his children. Usually they are merely puppets, nodding and bowing and strutting about in conformity with his own ideas. Frequently they are infinitely stupid and boring.

In one case out of a thousand, if that estimate is not too low, their creator can actually insinuate himself inside them, view with some comprehension that super-Homeric strife that every heart or brain or soul—which ever it is—contains, and present this conflict for the comprehension of dull mortals. It is then, we believe, that the reader comes upon a tale far more moving than anything which ever took place on the windy plains about Troy.

Arnold Bennett's "Riceyman Steps" (Doran) seems to be that single instance out of one or many thousands.

A miser marries a frugal neighbor. They take into their joint household the charwoman who has worked, part time, for both of them. Eventually they both die and the charwoman marries the shell-shocked man she loves.

There you have the plot of the whole tale, which covers nearly 400 pages. The scene is laid on the fringe of a London slum.

Out of this material Mr. Bennett has fashioned what seems to us one of the most moving and masterly of stories. It is a story without conflict, with no mighty climax, with no apparent purpose or appeal, and it is at the same time one of the most vivid and amazingly real recitals that we have ever seen in print.

"Riceyman Steps" seems to us the sublimation of all that is inspired in reporting. By the time you have gone fifty pages into the book you find yourself hating the principal characters profoundly. A hundred pages more and your hate has ebbed, and fifty on top of that, nothing remains but a strange, illogical sympathy, and, if you are like the conductor of this department, an immense amazement.

Time and time again we found ourselves regarding a page open-mouthed, forgetting that this was fiction, and wondering how in heaven's name the author found that out about one or the other of his characters. His uncanny ability to build vivid characters out of bits of apparently unnecessary details is a little like the creative blast that was breathed upon an Eden dust heap. We are less skeptical of the doctrine of transmigration of souls, now we have seen how successfully Arnold Bennett lives inside three persons at the same time.

Out of the shabby, tawdry, pennypinching life of the miserly couple and their drudge Mr. Bennett seems to us to have woven great beauty. Courage, he makes you realize, is a shining light, no matter to what it is applied. Love is a beautiful thing, even if its object is unworthy and its manifestation rather ridiculous. Sacrifice is austere and inspiring, even when its outward manifestation is silly. It is our impression that he has done a great, wise, tender and amazing book.

Something To Think About

By Bruno Lessing

GIRLS AND LOVE
Here's a dandy little story that Arthur Brisbane told the other day:

The cold-blooded school inspector, on his tour of inspection among the local schools, came before a class of girls. He wrote upon the blackboard:

"LXXX."

He then turned to a good-looking girl in the first row and, peering at her over the rim of his spectacles, asked:

"Young lady, I'd like to have you tell me what that means."

"Love and kisses," the girl promptly replied.

For the sake of those who do not know, it may be explained that LXXX are Roman numerals indicating the number 80. And, also for the sake of those who do not know, it may not be out of the way to explain that it is more proper and more natural that a normal, healthy, good-looking young girl should be more interested in love and kisses than in Roman numerals.

And while all this may sound somewhat funny, it is really very serious. The problem of educating young girls is in very much of a muddle just now. There are many systems; judged by their results, most of them are wrong.

Most young girls are good and nice and wholesome. They get these qualities from nature, inheritance and environment. The modern system of education does not seem to be helping them very much.

A young girl can no more help thinking of love and kisses than a wreny kitten can help thinking of a plate of milk. Is there no way in which the ponderous science of education can take this fact into account, instead of ignoring it? What earthly good does the average girl derive from the study of algebra, geometry, logic, biological chemistry, scientific history or political economy?

Girls, take it from us, LXXX stands for love and kisses.

Between the ages of sixteen and twenty, love and kisses are uppermost in the normal girl's mind. To attempt to take these thoughts from her, under guise of changing or improving her mind, is a woful waste of time. Those thoughts were implanted there by a stronger force than a modern educational system.

The time will come when the girl's whole life will be affected by her craving for love and kisses. Therefore, during her school years, she should be fitted to be ready for this time. There is a wholesome, intelligent way of doing it. There is also a stupid way.

No young man ever loved or kissed a girl because she knew a little algebra or a few words of Latin. Her charm of manner, her soft voice and her knack of making him feel that he was a coming Napoleon would arouse the LXXXXXXXXXX a thousand times faster.

About Japan

Japan includes five large islands and four thousand small ones.

These islands stretch out in a line over two thousand miles long. This means all kinds of climate from tropical in the South, to foggy and cold in the North.

When we say Japan most of us mean the main island, Hondu, whose average width is about seventy-five miles. It is the fifth largest island in the world. Thirty-eight million people live on it. The principal cities are Tokio, Kyoto, Osaka and Kobe.

The capital in Tokio. Hondu Island contains 86,306 square miles. It is about the size of the combined states of New York and Indiana.

The total area of all the islands of Japan is about the same as that of Sweden. This total is 172,852 square miles, which would go into Texas and leave a space of 92,928 square miles of Texas territory unfilled.

One half of the country is covered with forests. Including those forests and bare ridges and sand hills and rocky mountains, four-fifths of the country is untillable. Sixty percent of the people are farmers.

Perhaps nowhere else in the world is farming such hard work, as the workers often stand all day in the water, stooping over when cultivating the rice. The soil is poor and nowhere else in the world is fertilizer more carefully collected and rationally used.

Japan is of volcanic origin and in some parts of it the earth's crust is never quite still. Earthquakes everywhere are frequent. There are many striking resemblances between the Japanese race, the Apaches of America and the Aztecs of Mexico.

The Swastika occurs as frequently on pre-historic Mexican pottery and on relics left by the Mound Builders of Ohio, and also on Greek antiquities as it does on the ancient ware of China, Korea and Japan. Thus this peculiar sign, the Swastika, is a significant hint of the unity of the world population. The Emperor of Japan is called the Mikado. He is the one hundred and twenty-fourth in line from the first Mikado, who was born from heaven.

It is considered bad taste in Japan to call an Emperor by his name, or in fact refer to him at all. A foreigner should restrain his sense of humor when he is tempted to make jokes about this ruler. He is sure to give offense.

English is spoken extensively in Japan. The names of the stations and the signs on the railway platforms are in English as well as in Japanese.

The population of Japan increases at a more rapid rate than any other civilized country except the United States of America and Russia.

Much nonsense and much inaccurate information have been written about the Japanese. As a matter of fact, they are about like other human beings, but have, like all of us, their peculiar traits.

One of the best estimates of them has been written by T. Philip Terry:

"Whoever would essay to know the Japanese and to get along with them must first divorce his mind of nine-tenths of the frothy nonsense written about them by enthusiastic and inexact impressionists and consider them as just what they appear to be—an intensely human, earnest, industrious, proud, for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five; and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Dr. J. C. H. H. H. guarantees genuine Castoria.

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

J. E. SIMPSON, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."

G. A. WILSON, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children. I use it in all cases of colic, and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."

Chang Tso-Lin To Start
No New War This Spring,
He Tells Junius Wood

There is any fighting between the Fengtien and Chihli parties this year it will not be started from Mukden. If we are attacked, we are ready to fight and the war will continue until the other side is thoroughly defeated.

"Marshal Wu Pei-fu is now endeavoring to conquer everything south of the Yangtze. He does not preserve order in his own province of Honan and it remains to be seen whether his present campaign will be a success or a failure. I do not think he will succeed, the farther he goes the more difficult becomes his undertaking, but time will tell. The outcome is uncertain but it is unnecessary that we mix in the fighting.

"Manchuria is an autonomous state. It is able to support itself, feed itself, govern itself and satisfy itself without the remainder of China. It is self-sustaining and developing and growing stronger every year. Manchuria is well able to care for itself and proposes to do so."

REVIVE HARBOR PLANS

The plans for a harbor at Hulatao, on the west coast of the Gulf of Liaotung, have been revived. This would give Manchuria a port of its own, independent of Dairen and, unlike Chingwangtao, free from ice in the winter. The plans call for an expenditure of between 5,000,000 and 7,000,000 pounds sterling, which includes the restoration of the railroad connecting the new port with the Peking-Mukden line.

"Each year the government offers reduced rates and frequent transportation to colonists who want to come to Manchuria from other parts of China," Marshal Chang continued. "The large land owners furnish them more assistance in getting located and started. More than 140,000 of such colonists have moved into Manchuria."

He was asked about the progress of Japanese colonization plan in Manchuria, the general impression being that, despite the treaty permitting Japanese to own land in the interior, the Mukden government will not permit the Chinese to transfer it. The Japanese projects are extensive, including experiment station, scientific farming devoted chiefly to rice cultivation which would not compete with the Chinese crops of kaoling, beans and wheat.

"The Chinese owners do not want to sell their lands," he replied, not answering as to whether they were permitted to do so. "Japanese methods of farming are different from those in China and they cannot adjust themselves to the Chinese methods. Their attempts to colonize have not been the success which was anticipated and they have lost much money."

The great mineral wealth of Manchuria, is comparatively undeveloped and the marshal was asked whether the authorities would permit foreign corporations to mine under government regulations, would insist that the capital of mining companies be divided equally between Chinese and foreign stockholders or would permit only exclusively Chinese concerns to operate.

CHINA CAPITAL PREFERRED
"It is preferable that the wealth of China be developed by Chinese, but that may be slow and have practical obstacles," he replied. "The government does not have an unchangeable policy. Each case will be considered separately and whether a corporation, entirely with foreign capital, is granted a concession will depend upon its reliability, financial resources and similar conditions. Development of the country will bring wealth to it in many ways."

The marshal said that he and Leon Karakhan, the Soviet envoy, had not been able to reach any agreement in their negotiations. He did not indicate that there was much hope of doing so. He added that the land question in regard to the Chinese Eastern Railway remains unsettled, an argument which concerns other powers, and declared that no Soviet troops are not in either Manchuria or Mongolia so that there is no controversy on that score. He showed considerable interest in the possible effect which the death of Lenin might have in Russia.

Those familiar with conditions in Manchuria say that while all the resources of the country are directed towards military preparedness, some work can be done on the many plans for internal improvements if fighting does not actually start. They also feel that it will be difficult to carry through to completion the comprehensive schemes for railroads, highways, factories, mines, schools and similar public works, unless the territory is relieved of its heavy drain for military expenses.

However General Chang, the marshal's son announces that he will test out an aeroplane mail service radiating from Mukden to Harbin, Antung and Chingwangtao, starting next week.

No Progress Made
In Fengtai Case;
Defendant Is Ill

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 29.—No definite progress in the Fengtai case is reported but hope is expressed by the Waichiao that the matter will shortly be brought to a conclusion. It appears that when the Ministry of War instructed Colonel Chen to proceed to Peking and report at the Ministry he sent word that he was too ill to do so. The Ministry then dispatched the Chief Medical Officer and the Chief Court Marshal Officer of the Ministry of War and another high official to examine Colonel Chen. Their report was that he was in reality too ill to travel.

The operation on Mr. Bessal was satisfactory and he is now doing as well as could be expected in the circumstances.

Lay Plans For New Political Party

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 29.—With regard to the report that Mr. Wang Yu-chi is arranging to organize a new political party, it is stated on good authority that Mr. Ku Chih-jung will be made the official leader of the group and will be assisted by a number of heads of smaller bodies. The chief aim of the party is said to be to deal with three important questions: (1) Election of a Vice-President, (2) Reorganization of the Cabinet, and (3) Election of the new Parliament.

It is also reported that the so-called Tientsin clique, under the leadership of Marshal Wang Chenping, is creating a new party to be under the direct leadership of Mr. Pien Shou-ching. It is to be called the Tungkai and its object is to work for reunification by peaceful manner. It has been suggested by interested persons that the two parties can work together for their collective objects without discord.

Buildings Going
Up At Changshu

(China Press Correspondence)

Changshu, Ku, Feb. 29.—The Changshu Hotel opened its doors for business after the New Year. It is situated not far from the Sacred Mountains in our city and is a three story building with a roof garden. The plans for it were drawn by a foreign trained Chinese architect. The outside is finished with cement and granite chip stucco and makes a fine appearance.

The building has 100 rooms and is prepared to cater to those desiring either Chinese or western meals. It is said to have cost $30,000.

A rival to this is the Great Hotel which is to be opened tomorrow. It is in a more crowded part of the city but is said to be able to class with the Changshu, both as to rooms and catering. The Bank of China is completing a building with a fire proof vault, and comfortable modern quarters. It is by far the best banking house in the city.

During the past year scores of new residences and buildings have been erected in our city. Most of them have a western style of construction, especially as to front, and the red tile of a modern Western style is the most popular material for the roof.
